WHAT I BRING TO THE TABLE

The Power of Connection. I've spent the best – and most rewarding – parts of my career connecting people to companies' strategies, value propositions, initiatives, transformations, and each other through the use of strategic narratives, experiences, campaigns/programs, content, and channel strategies. All backed by an integrated communications perspective and a highly collaborative approach.

I am a strategic, trusted advisor for executives, leaders, business partners and fellow communicators. I excel at understanding organizations, how they work, what matters most and translating that into sophisticated communications strategies and tactical plans in support of business strategy and priorities.
